HEAVY OFFERINGS
CAUSE GRAIN DROP

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—After a show of strength at the opening the market, grain prices declined sharply on the Chicago board of trade Monday. Heavy offerings with slack buying by commission houses caused the drop.

Provisions were lower in sympathy with grains.

Wheat, December, opened off 3/4 at 1.13 1/2 and closed down 3/4; May opened 1/4 at 1.13 1/2 and lost 1/4 at the close.

Corn, December, opened unchanged at 47 and closed down 3/4; May opened 1/4 at 53 1/2 and closed off 1/4.

Oats, December, opened up 1/4 at 47 and closed down 3/4; May opened up 1/4 at 37 1/2 and closed off 1/4.

SEEK SENTIMENT OF TAXPAYERS ON BRIDGE LOCATION

Want Highway Commission to Know Where Appleton
People Want Viaduct

Rumors were current in Appleton over the weekend that an effort has been or is being made to influence the Wisconsin highway commission in its decision on the location of a proposed viaduct across the Fox river. Several weeks ago a hearing was held for the purpose of learning if there is a need for a bridge here and to determine where the bridge, if it is needed shall be located. Under a law on the statute books, aid can be received from the state if the bridge is more than 450 feet long and its construction is ordered by the highway commission.

No official statement was forthcoming after the hearing as to how the commission felt about the bridge matter but later it was learned unofficially that at least some of the engineers of the commission were favorable to the proposed Cherry-st. location. Later, however, it was rumored that the commission has had a change in heart and that the proposed Lake-st. site is being favored.

It was reported about the city last week that the commission had been visited by Appleton men who represented that there is no sentiment in Appleton for location of a bridge at Cherry-st., while there is a big demand for a Lake-st. viaduct. This charge is denied by friends of the Cherry-st. project and they now are seeking to learn just how the people at large feel on the bridge matter. To that end they have prepared a simple ballot printed herewith which readers of this paper are requested to fill in, sign full name and address, and return to the Post-Crescent. It is believed that the true sentiment of the taxpayers can be learned by that method.

Here is the ballot:

Bridge Ballot

TOO MUCH MOONSHINE
LANDS MAN IN COURT

Moonshine will out. Homecoming and other celebrations, wise and otherwise, ended in quiet hours in a cell for one person, A. H. Anderson of Antigo, was arrested by police officers for doing the moonshine toddle on downtown streets.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN ACCEPT U. S. DISARM PLAN

Tax Rate For City Government To Be Less Than Year Ago

Common Council Fixes Tentative Rate for City Purposes at $12

HIGH SCHOOL LEVY IS LESS
Total Budget for Conduct of City Affairs Shows Decrease

The tax rate for general city purposes in the city of Appleton this year probably will be 60 cents lower than a year ago, it was learned at a special meeting of the common council in the city hall Monday evening. The rate, tentatively fixed by the council is $12 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation of property as compared with $12.60 last year. This rate does not cover the district schools, county and state tax but does include an appropriation of $12,000 to the library.

The definite rate for all city taxes will not be determined until the county clerk certifies the amount which the city must raise for county and state taxes. This will be done following the meeting of the county board which is to start its session this afternoon.

Those arrived at by the council Monday are tentative and subject to change. It was estimated that the total expense of operating the city, exclusive of schools, from Oct. 1, 1921, to April 1, 1922, will be $203,475 and for the six months from April 1, 1922, to Oct. 1 of the same year the cost was estimated at $265,725, making a total of $469,200. To this was added the library appropriation of $12,000, making a total of $481,200.

Levy Is Lower
Deductions for cash on hand, corporation taxes, etc., reduce the total to be raised by taxes on real estate and personal property to approximately $214,000 as compared with $214,653 last year. The deductions are as follows: Cash on hand, $60,000; high school taxes, $35,000; estimated tax of Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co., $18,000; estimated income taxes, after personal property taxes are subtracted, $25,000; estimated telephone company tax, $3,500; estimated revenue from special taxes, $25,000, making a total of $167,500.

The estimated revenue from income taxes is about $15,000 less than last year because of the big personal property tax deductions. It was explained that the manufacturers, the largest income taxpayers, have unusually large assessments for personal property this year.

State Tax High
Unofficial information in the hands of the council indicated that the city's share of the state tax will be about $15,000 higher than last year while the county tax will be about the same.

The total assessed valuation of personal property and real estate in the city is $26,235,559, an increase of about a million dollars over last year. The largest portion of this increase is in personal property.

The levy for high school purposes is 69 cents for every dollar less than last year. The rate is $5.45 for the property tax collection as compared with $5.04 in 1920. Adding this rate to the tentative rate of $12 for general city purposes, makes a total rate for city administration and high school of $17.45 as compared with $18.64 last year, a decrease of $1.19.

The tax rate for district school purposes this year is lower in the First and Fourth districts and higher in the Second and Third.

Following are the rates for district school taxes and the tentative rates for city and high school purposes in each of the four districts:

District	Schools	Total	1920
First	$7.26	$24.81	$26.55
Second	$6.04	$22.49	$23.50
Third	$5.82	$22.27	$23.50
Fourth	$5.50	$22.25	$23.14

These figures indicate that unless county and state taxes are considerably higher than a year ago the total tax rate for the city for all purposes will not be quite as high as in 1920. The council, in preparing its levy, rated all appropriations to the bone as it wished to keep the levy as low as possible because business conditions are such that heavy taxation would create an almost unbearable burden.

The public library board had requested an appropriation of $14,000 but this was reduced to $12,000 in order to effect all the economy possible. No appropriation was included in the budget for public health but it is entirely possible that this matter will be taken care of later. It is found that economies can be made in other branches of the city's activities sufficient to warrant organization for the musical organization.

MAY APPOINT HIROHITO AS JAP REGENT

Emperor of Far Eastern Nation is Too Ill to Administer Country's Affairs

By Clarence DuBose
(Copyright, 1921, by United Press)
Tokyo—Hirohito, crown prince of Japan, may soon be made regent with practically all the powers of emperor. It was learned here Tuesday.

Some think that before the Washington conference is a month or six weeks old, Hirohito's regency will have commenced.

This action, now being considered in councils of state, will result from ill health of the emperor, who for more than a year has been unable to perform any functions of his position.

When Hirohito becomes regent he will virtually be emperor of Japan. No one knows how long it will be before he will be able to succeed to the throne.

An official bulletin from the imperial household department some weeks ago announced as grave the health of the mikado.

Since then newspapers in Japan have been forbidden to discuss the emperor's health.

It is known with absolute reliability that councils for the most influential and powerful government forces are being held for the purpose of considering making Hirohito regent.

PROBLEM OF ORIENT MUST BE SETTLED

Far East Military Combinations Must Be Removed Ahead of Disarmament

U. S. MAY HAVE SOLUTION

International Tribunal Is Proposed to 'Make Nations' Fulfill Promises

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—America's naval proposals, as announced by Secretary Hughes, are predicated upon the confident assumption that the Anglo-Japanese alliance as well as all other military combinations in the Far East will be eliminated.

The United States is willing to reduce the size of its navy but insists that the causes of misunderstanding which make havens necessary shall be removed.

The Japanese delegates have carefully refrained from saying that they would accept the American proposals upon condition that a satisfactory agreement is later reached upon Far Eastern questions. This is truly significant for it is far more advantageous for the Japanese to see the United States committed to a smaller navy at this time than to have held over them the lever of large armaments if they do not agree to America's suggestions on Far Eastern problems.

No Final Facts New
Since the United States is however not eager to see anything settled at this time except the main principles of the naval program, it is probable that nothing final will be agreed upon which is actually binding on any of the nations until all the Far Eastern questions have been thoroughly canvassed and there is prospect of agreement on these matters too.

The air is filled with expectations of another formula by Mr. Hughes to be sprung on the conference laying down certain principles on the Far Eastern situation. Whether these will be laid on the table at an open session or an agreement sought in private, is not yet determined. The American aspiration is for these principles.

First, that all alliances shall be abrogated.

Second, that spheres of influence in the Far East shall be given up by all powers and the principle of the "open door" absolutely accepted with a pledge for its maintenance.

Third, that an international tribunal be constituted where pending questions as well as other vexed interpretations of existing treaties may be equally adjusted.

Unless some such body is provided for, the conference here might last for months without achieving agreement as the problem of China's relations to the treaty powers is a complicated one and the most that can be hoped binding agreement upon principles which can be applied by the tribunal as each case arises.

The spirit of the moment is one of optimism; the reception given the Hughes proposals by the whole world has stimulated the American delegation to proceed in the open on other questions at issue. Open diplomacy has achieved a victory far beyond the expectations of Secretary Hughes himself who is responsible for the policy of laying all cards face up.

The conference is still in a preliminary stage; overconfidence is still unwarranted. But the outlook is brighter as this conference opens than it was at Paris or The Hague or any other international conference in modern history.

Happy World Proves That Honesty Is Best

Open Diplomacy Supplanting Secrecy and Selfish Ends Is Sure to Have Contagious Effect in Bringing Permanent Peace.

By William Jennings Bryan
(Copyright 1921 by United Press)
Washington—Washington is the center of world interest Tuesday.

Dispatches are coming in from all the nations expressing approval of the nation's stand on disarmament. What a lesson in international morality! The language of diplomacy is sometimes used for the concealing of ideas; crafty suggestions and crafty answers pass between crafty diplomats and they are approved by crafty politicians.

Government controlled by a few for selfish ends has often continued over periods of years, because those in authority had force to back them and because the people were ignorant of the real ends pursued. The present conference has set a new precedent and its practically unanimous approval proves that "honesty is the best policy" even in international affairs.

CABBAGE GROWERS OF COUNTY JOIN HANDS IN SOCIETY

Will Ask County Board for $1,000 to Help Pay for Services of Expert

Outagamie County Cabbage Growers association was organized in the city hall Monday afternoon at a meeting of nearly 200 farmers. Phil Bixby was elected president, Percy Blount, vice president, and Paul Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, secretary and treasurer. The membership fee was fixed at 50 cents per year.

The meeting was called by Mr. Nyhus who was assisted in effecting the organization by Dr. J. C. Walker and Prof. R. E. Vaughan of the plant pathology department of the state university, who addressed the growers on cabbage diseases.

The need of a field man to look after the crop, whose salary would be paid by the state, providing the association or county would pay his traveling expenses, and provide him with laboratory quarters was discussed. It was brought out he would need an automobile to cover the county and this with gasoline and upkeep would amount to about $500 a year.

As the entire county was to be benefited by this organization it was decided to ask the county board for an appropriation of $1,000 for two years to cover his expenses. It was particularly emphasized that he was not to act as county agent, but was to devote all his time to cabbage.

The motion to organize a cabbage growers association was made by Malachi Ryan of the town of Buchanan.

"I think the proposition a good one," said Prof. Vaughan, "and I would like to see it put through. A group of men can do a lot of things that cannot be done by an individual. It can work with the college experimental station, and it can work as an organization. We would have a local head with which to tie up."

Seed Matter Later: The matter of procuring seed for the coming year will be taken up at a meeting to be held later in the winter. Each member will be notified by mail as soon as a definite date has been determined.

In announcing the purpose of the meeting, Mr. Nyhus called attention to the damage done throughout the county by cabbage diseases. He introduced Dr. Walker, who spoke on black rot and black leg.

Dr. Walker had previously placed on the wall pictures of plants affected by these diseases to which he called attention and which he said were of interest to people in this section of the state.

"You should understand at the outset," said Dr. Walker, "that every plant is subject to its specific diseases. These are only two of the diseases of cabbage. We might fill a room with specific diseases of cabbage. However, these are the most important to growers at this time."

Dr. Walker then spoke of symptoms of the diseases as seen in the field and in the illustrations and called attention to the fact they are different, one attacking the roots and the other the leaves.

Need Clean Seed: The germs may be either in the seed or in the soil. Treatment of the seed exterminates all but from 3 to 5 per cent of the organism.

The necessity of procuring seed free from these germs was emphasized by Dr. Walker who said seed raised in the Puget Sound district, where climatic conditions prevented these diseases, were free from organisms.

Dr. Walker's talk was followed by a general discussion in which a large number of growers related their experiences. The question resolved itself into the matter of clean seed and clean soil.

In speaking of maggots on cabbage, Prof. Vaughan said they came from a fly somewhat smaller than the ordinary house fly which lays its eggs on the roots. The eggs hatch out in three or four days and the maggots work on the stems of the plant.

While no definite action was taken concerning a supply of seed for the coming year the general sentiment appeared to favor purchase of it in large quantities in order to reduce the cost.

REDUCED RAIL RATES TO BOYS CONFERENCE

Boys who are expecting to attend the Older Boys conference in Milwaukee, Nov. 25, 26, 27 are expected to send in their registration cards as soon as possible. Those whose names are handed in this week will receive free lodging and breakfast while in Milwaukee from Friday evening to Monday noon. Word has been received that reduced railroad rates of one and one-half fare have been obtained for those who will attend the conference.

Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pain that a woman can. He thought he was going to die and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw he tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which a nurse told us about, and now he is entirely well and eats anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. —Druggists Everywhere. adv.

Truancy Increase Is Alarming School Heads

County School Officials May Apply Pressure to Force Attendance

An alarming increase in truancy in rural schools has resulted in an appeal by County Superintendent Florence Jenkins to parents in the county asking them to send their children to school.

Letters are now being sent out to a number of parents from the county superintendent's office. In these letters, attention is being directed to this provision of the school law: "Any person having under his control any child between the ages of seven and fourteen years, or any child between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years not regularly and lawfully employed in any useful service or employment at home or elsewhere, shall cause such child to be enrolled in and to attend some public, parochial or private school regularly."

"Children must attend in towns and villages not less than six school months each year, a school month, being 20 days, and all children subject to the provisions of this subsection shall be enrolled in some public, parochial or private school within one school month after the commencement of the school term in the district in which such children reside."

In some cases, the last mentioned clause has not been complied with, according to the reports from teachers. Although most of the schools have been in session the last two months, some children have not yet been enrolled. Others have been enrolled but are not attending regularly. Action forcing the attendance of these children is threatened and according to law the following penalty can be invoked if the appeal of the superintendent is ignored:

"Any person who shall violate the provisions of this subsection shall upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50, together with the costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, for each offense."

Reports of last year show that in a certain school district the attendance was far below the minimum required by law. A few children are said to be unable to attend for the lack of shoes and clothing but this matter will be taken care of by the county or in some other way. In other cases, parental indifference is to blame for poor attendance at school and in these cases it is proposed to apply pressure if necessary.

HOLD PLEDGE DAY NEXT SUNDAY TO FINANCE CHURCH

Congregational Church Will Try New Plan of Raising $23,000 Budget

Next Sunday the First Congregational church will put into operation its voluntary pledge plan of raising its annual budget of $23,000 for church expenses, missions and benevolences. The day has been designated as "pledge day," and is being given wide publicity through the pulpit, posters and the monthly church paper, "Our Church."

This is the first time a purely voluntary financial campaign has been attempted, but church officials express confidence in its success. It supplements the every-member canvases used for the last several years, in which committees solicited the entire membership in the homes on a designated Sunday afternoon.

Six booths will be arranged in the lecture room of the church, each to take care of an alphabetical division of the membership. Members are expected to call at the church between the hours of 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening and sign or renew their weekly pledge.

An "at home" is being arranged, enabling the members to mingle socially for a brief period. Tea will be served by some of the church ladies.

"Minute men" have spoken at each Sunday morning service for several weeks explaining the plan and urging the members to bring their gifts of money to the church, instead of requiring the church to go and get them.

STUDY MARKING OF HISTORIC PLACES

To interest the people of Wisconsin in having the historical places of the state properly marked for the benefit of the residents of the state and of visitors from other states, the landmark committee of the state historical society is planning a school to be held in January for the purpose of promoting their object.

John A. Hazelwood, chairman of the committee has recently named the following chairmen of special committees to plan and prepare for this work: John G. Mack, program; John Muir, historical places; Prof. W. D. Frost, church and mission sites; Senator W. A. Thrus, educational and school sites; George L. Hambrecht, old tavern and half way houses; Judge A. H. Long, old Indian sites and David Atwood.

Delegates from women's clubs, friends of the native landscape, American legion, Daughters of the American Revolution and other organizations will send delegates to the school at Madison in January.

AMERICAN PLAN WILL BE ACCEPTED

The reaction to Secretary Hughes' plan for the reduction and limitation of naval armaments is so favorable that one would almost be justified in predicting the certainty of its adoption. Public opinion throughout Great Britain has indorsed the proposal without condition. In Japan the people received the program of the American secretary of state with enthusiasm. Its popularity was, therefore, instantaneous and complete. What the peoples of Great Britain, Japan and the United States demand their representatives at Washington can hardly deny. Accordingly, we find the governments at London and Tokio instructing their emissaries at Washington to immediately indorse the proposal "in principle." What they have indorsed in principle they will of necessity accept in fact. It is practically a foregone conclusion that Mr. Hughes' plan will be ratified by the conference in substantially the form presented, that the great powers will forthwith scrap the warships proscribed, both old and new, that they will take a ten-year naval holiday in which no armament shall be added except replacement, and thereafter the great navies of the world will be limited to a tonnage that is modest in comparison with even present day establishments.

While the conference is working out details, we shall have the usual voluminous analysis of the plan by publicists and newspapers. We shall have reasons advanced why it must be modified here and why enlarged there. We shall have it said that Japan will accept it on certain contingencies and reject it on others. There will be a lot of talk about danger to the whole scheme unless the Anglo-Japanese alliance is terminated, or unless the Far eastern and Pacific problems are first amicably settled. We should not allow ourselves to be misled by this idle speculation but should pin our faith on concrete results from the use of common sense. Mr. Hughes said very distinctly in presenting his memoranda that the American proposal was in no way dependent upon a solution or even consideration of the problems of the Orient and Pacific. It is a straightforward proposition to be determined on its own merits without respect to any other questions to be brought before the conference. There will be some politicians in Japan who will say this cannot be done with safety to Japanese interests. There are some in this country who are already saying it cannot be done with security to American interests. But the fact remains that it can be done and that in all probability it will be done, politicians, alarmists, even Mr. H. G. Wells, to the contrary notwithstanding.

Japan has found to her surprise a most friendly attitude toward her delegates at Washington. She has discovered that all the hostile propaganda here bore no real reflection of American opinion or of governmental attitude. Naturally her spokesmen are pleased. The naval strength allotted to Japan is all that she could maintain comparatively without a limitation agreement. True she is left impotent to wage a successful war on the United States, but she is in that condition today, consequently she loses nothing politically and gains a great deal economically. It is inconceivable that Great Britain will renew an alliance with Japan that would strengthen Japan against the United States or bind Great Britain to make war on this nation. Such a treaty will never be made. Japan knows it and so does the United States. In the future Great Britain will be far more disposed to cast her lot with the United States than with Japan or any other nation. The reasons for the Anglo-Japanese alliance have practically ceased to exist, all of which confirms the probability of ratification of the Hughes plan.

The Far eastern and Pacific problems will be taken care of at the proper time and there is every reason to believe that they will be satisfactorily disposed of. There is nothing insurmountable in them, nothing which cannot be settled by square and open dealing. The preponderance of Japanese influence in the Orient is a fact which ought to be recognized. Exploitation of China must be made constructive and equitable and without discrimination against Europe and America and without detriment or injury to China herself. The good will and friendly atmosphere in which the conference has been opened prophecies its success in far greater measure than even the most optimistic dared to hope a few days ago. It indicates the dawning of a new era in world diplomacy and international relations.

P. S.

Now that the nation has paid fitting honor to the memory of the Unknown Soldier let us not forget to add that further tribute of "Colonel" George A. Harvey that he fought because he "was afraid not to fight," and that even to save his own country and "his own skin" he went most "reluctantly and laggardly."

MR. HARDING AT HIS BEST

Two notable addresses were delivered by President Harding at the close of the week. His address at Arlington cemetery at the ceremony of honoring America's unknown dead was the finest example of oratorical effort by our public men in many years. We doubt if anything as touching in appeal or as reverent in suggestion has come from the lips of a president since Mr. Lincoln. In diction it was a master of simplicity, in theme loftily patriotic and in sentiment deeply tender. It is a speech well worth preserving for posterity, and one which every school boy in the land ought to read. It was a particularly happy incident of this otherwise sorrowful occasion that many men of international prominence were in Washington at the time and were privileged to listen to this dignified, human address from the president, breathing its pure and exalted Americanism.

Mr. Harding's speech at the conference on the limitation of armament was a splendid and impressive opening of that momentous gathering. While dissimilar from the Arlington address in that it was not oratorical, it was nevertheless perfectly adapted to the occasion and helped to create an atmosphere of action and determination. Mr. Harding's sincerity of desire to serve his country well and faithfully is unquestioned, and it is giving him new powers of conception and expression. Both of these addresses increased measurably the regard in which he is held not only in this country but abroad.

VANITY

A New York society woman pays Stein & Blaine, furriers and tailors, $60,000 cash for a Russian sable coat, said to be the most expensive garment of its kind ever made. It took three years to match the skins for this coat.

To buy it on the installment plan, one would have to pay $10 a week for 115 years, not counting interest on the $60,000 investment that also would have to be paid.

The wearer of this fur coat will not have to go to heaven for her happiness.

Eventually a little mother moth will bury herself in the fur and lay eggs. That will be the end of the fur coat. So much for vanity.

Benefit for the Middle West
The reductions announced by the trans-continental lines shows appreciation by the railroads that the high rates are blocking prosperity. It has been proved that some traffic simply will not move at the high rates; if it can be got to move, it will bring needed revenue to the railroads, stimulate trade and industry, and eventually bring lower prices.

It is noteworthy that the reductions were not made in compliance with orders from the interstate commerce commission. Some are voluntary and others in response to petitions of shippers. At least it is not a horizontal reduction; each kind of goods is treated on its merits.

These reductions are made to meet competition of water shipment through the Panama canal. The railroads seem to have learned the lesson taught them by the California fruit growers, who when freight rates became exorbitant shipped their fruit east through the canal. The lower canal rates, however, benefit only the territory reached directly by water, the east coast. With the rail rates reduced, the middle west also will benefit from Panama canal competition.

The lowering of freight rates is a practical showing of one of the great benefits that will come to the middle west from the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway. It will do for the heart of the continent what the Panama canal has done for the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard—provide a means of transportation which the railroads must meet in competition. If the waterway served no purpose beyond regulating freight rates it would be worth while.—MILWAUKEE JOURNAL (Ind.)

MIMICRY OF TICS

The temptation to imitate a habit spasm exhibited by an individual who commands respect or admiration is powerful, even for adults and often proves irresistible for a child. Thus in any group of children, as in a schoolroom, there are almost sure to be a few who have tics or habit spasms which are more or less obvious, depending on the character and intensity of the spasm. A blinking or grimacing tic is more conspicuous in a group than a sniffing or throat clearing habit unless the latter tic is accompanied with noticeable sounds. Some tics are associated with peculiar sounds, as of clearing the throat, snorting, or some other peculiar action which even originally was purposive. The ordinary tic often has its origin in some purposive action, such as a lip tic from moistening the lip with saliva to relieve a sore on the lip, or a snuffle tic following some temporary nasal inflammation. Indeed, the formation of an ordinary tic might be called mimicry by the victim himself of some of his own actions. And in children peculiar use of the face or the muscles of expression commonly occur from mimicry of normal peculiarities of expression they have observed upon the faces of persons they admire or respect. Any voluntary or purposive act may be imitated or reproduced in a tic, such as shrugging the shoulders, nodding, scratching.

The individual with a tic can always avoid the repetition of the movement or action if he tries to control or prevent it, but only for a brief period of seconds or minutes, after which it will occur in spite of him. In this way it is different from true spasm, for the victim of a spasm of course cannot control the action. The tic, however, may be controlled, no matter how much he may try. And in this way, also, it differs from choreic twitches (St. Vitus' dance) which are rather increased if the child attempts to control or prevent them by will. The habit spasm may occur every few moments, but is sometimes absent for a considerable number of minutes when the individual is intellectually preoccupied. Of course, choreic twitches are wholly irregular and non purposive. In chorea and in habit spasm or tic the movements cease during sleep; in true spasm they do not.

The effort or will which enables the victim of a tic to prevent the movement for a few seconds is inhibition, which means holding back or checking some action. Thru the development and strengthening of inhibition by carefully conducted exercises carried out before a mirror and under the supervision of a physician or physical director with special training for such treatment, it is possible in many instances to cure habit spasm, at least in children and youths. Associates of Dr. William J. M. A. Maloney, of New York city, using the muscle education exercise Dr. Maloney has employed so successfully in the treatment of locomotor ataxia, have reported excellent results from similar exhibition exercises in the treatment of tics.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Rather Fashionable Thing Nowadays
I am a girl 24 years old and very bold-tongued. Can anything be done for me?—Miss C. E.

Answer—In olden times used to call some girls bold-faced, but I can readily see what you mean. Sometimes in infancy properly applied splints will overcome bowing, but after the age of six years the only remedy is to have the legs straightened by an operation.

Quinine Poisoning.

I was greatly interested in one of your statements concerning the extraordinarily unpleasant effects of quinine upon certain individuals. Would such idiosyncrasy go so far as to bring on insanity in such an individual?—H. W.

Answer—No. Blindness, deafness, head-noises and skin rashes are sometimes produced, but never anything like insanity.

Malaria

Can malaria be transmitted by a parent to a child? The individual concerned lives in a dry, healthful location, yet suffers a recurrence of malaria each year without the presence of mosquitoes.—Mrs. F. S. T.

Answer—Malaria is not inheritable. One infected with malaria may have annual seizures for years until the parasites are eradicated from the blood.

The Flat-Footed Walk

When walking I strike the ground first with my heels. I find it difficult to point my toes outward. My heels make too much noise on the pavement. How may I correct this fault?—Miss F. E.

Answer—It is difficult for you to walk today straight ahead or a trifle inward, then there is something the matter with your feet or shoes. But it is wrong, as well as ungraceful, to toe outward when walking. Perhaps you should wear fairly broad flat heels, or at least heels much lower than the common fashion.

Five Eggs at Sixty Cents

Please tell me whether it is bad for me to eat five eggs every day—soft boiled. An optician who has his desk in my father's store says I ought not eat more than two.—(M. M.)

Answer—For a growing, active boy, five eggs a day are all right. If his father is a wealthy man. The food value of five eggs would be about the same as that of five glasses of milk or five potatoes.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berlen Brady

RELATIVELY SPEAKING

If you're sure you'll continue to love her
When, after the honeymoon's thrush,
You find—as most husbands discover—
Her ways are too good to be true;
If you won't mind her wearing a wrapper
Or putting cold cream on her brow;
If you're sure you won't jump up and slap her
For some slight domestic row;

If you think you'll continue to love him
When, after the honeymoon's thrush,
The idiosyncrasies of him
Prove quite an astonishing blend;
If you think you can stand him unshaven
And smoking a reeking dud;
If you won't mind the way he'll behave in
The days you are "getting things clean";

If you won't mind his being quite human
And sometimes a little bit less;
If you won't mind her being a woman
Instead of an angel, I guess,
In spite of some intervals scripping,
Some boredom and friction and jar,
You'll find yourselves fully as happy
As average married folks are!

A Banner Year For Books

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—The book week recently celebrated in New York has already had its imitators in local book weeks and book fairs in other cities, and these are only a few of the many symptoms that the United States of America, known the world over as the most materialistic and unintellectual of countries, has suddenly developed an interest in books many times greater than it ever had before.

Books are selling in America at an unusual rate, and some are reaching very high totals of circulation, but the significant fact is not so much the number as the character of the books that are being sold. Various periodicals and booksellers' publications put out from time to time lists of books most in demand at book stores and at public libraries. These are surely the best possible index to what the people are reading and they show that Americans are reading better books than ever before.

In former years these best sellers and books most in demand at libraries were almost all of kinds that had proved their commercial value, just as certain brands of soap, perfume and toothpaste have done. They were trade-goods, having no literary value, and often pretending to none.

The principal types of these standard trade novels were the wild west story, the detective or mystery story, the southern mountaineer, the sentimental love story, and the moral; pornography story, in which the hero and heroine go through a long series of sexual gymnastics hallowed in the end by matrimony.

Novels of these types have appeared in this country every spring and fall for many years as regularly as the seasons come around. Some of them have been written with genuine skill and have really entertained readers of certain large classes of readers.

All of them were made according to a well-worn formula and had no more relation to the life they purported to depict, or to any other phase of life, than movies of the poorer sort. They were the literary successors of the "Nick Carter," "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," "East Lynne" and "Why Girls Leave Home." Those best sellers of the last generation were often bound in gaudy paper covers and sold very cheaply. They were widely read. But their reputation became steadily worse. "Dime novel" and "paper-back novel" and "yellow-back novel" became terms of reproach and contempt.

People were ashamed to be caught reading them. Their vogue declined, but not the appetite for cheap illusion, machine-made thrill, easy moralizing and vicious eroticism which they fed. Accordingly the dime novel merely changed its dress. It was bound in boards, illustrated and sold at a price that slowly advanced from 50 cents to $2.00. A book that would have been sneered at in paper covers was now desired in board covers. It was not that the public taste had changed, but simply that the paper cover was no longer respectable. So strong was the reaction against paper covers that most booksellers will not today stock a book in paper covers. It was recently urged by a prominent British man of letters that the first novel by a young writer be brought out in paper covers so that the cost of such an uncertain venture would not be so great. He was laughed at. No one would buy anything in a paper cover.

Meanwhile, "Diamond Dick" has gone marching on in respectable board covers. He has merely changed his name to "Pleasant Pete of Polca Canyon," or "Slutting Simpson," or he has put on skirts and run wild as "Scraps of the Lazy K," or "Susan of Pluto Pass." His name is legion and always he is the same. When the reader opens a wild west story he knows just what he is going to find—a beautiful girl who rides wild horses, a strapping cow puncher who is a cross between Sir Galahad and Billy Sunday, a villain, usually Mexican or half-breed, who is coming to a bad end after a nefarious attempt on the heroine's virtue. The action will be plastered with purple sunsets, rock-walled mazes of mysterious canyon, shimmering leagues of alkaline desert. When the writer cannot think of anything else to do, he will let the coyotes howl for awhile.

One could go on to describe all of the other well known standard types—the detective story in which a wealthy clubman is always murdered in his library, and after suspicion has hovered over the head of some noble young woman and her handsome lover for awhile, the deed is found to have been done by the butler; the mountain story in which a beautiful mountain belle, a vampire, a revenue officer and precipitates a lot of sanguinary shooting; the sweet story of pure love in which the smile and the tear alternate with mechanical regularity until the final climax and the fade out into virtuous bliss; and the sort of thing we have with us now, in which a strapping Arab man handles and disrobes a, beautiful but debauched, several hundred nudes, but all is made well in the end with a license.

All of these types are still with us, and all of them are still read. Then what is the evidence for a literary awakening? It is in the fact that good books are at least competing with the trade goods on an equal footing. Three out of five books most in demand at public libraries are the work of first class novelists who are praised by all discerning critics. On a list of 30 books most in demand at the front rank of contemporary literature. Moreover, no wild west or detective or mountain-moonshine story holds a high place. The last production of a writer of cheap moralizing tales, but has sold his other books by millions, holds a low place on the list. One very sentimental love story holds its own, and the above-mentioned study in erotomania is a best seller. This great moral nation must have its smut, and also its mush.

The change nevertheless is one that amounts to revolution. Not is still read, but there are ten readers for one good book in this country today where one grew before the war.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Russia's Bid For Recognition

The offer of the Soviet government which, as quoted by the CHICAGO NEWS (Ind.) is "to acknowledge the old Czarist debts contracted before 1914, to make a binding agreement toward paying them off within a certain period, and to negotiate at a conference an economic accord between Soviet Russia and the powers that are willing and able to promote the economic rehabilitation of Russia for their own benefit as well as for hers," is interpreted in most American papers as a frantic effort to secure a life-line that will save the Bolshevik administration. Not only are the willingness and ability of Russia to pay these debts seriously questioned, but the singleness of purpose in making the offer is a matter of grave doubt, many writers regarding it as merely a bribe, an effort "to buy for cash," as the DETROIT FREE PRESS (Ind.) puts it, "a status among the nations which they are not willing to grant upon the merits of the Russian case." A minority opinion, however, holds that whatever the domestic situation impelling such an offer, it should be seriously considered by the powers to which it is made.

The "appeal is momentous," the CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) thinks, not because of "any basis it offers for new relations with Russia," but because of "the evidence it gives that the bolshevik tyranny is nearing its end." Without recognition by the other nations of the world Bolshevik is "doomed to perish," the NEW ORLEANS TIMES (Ind.) declares. "It cannot maintain itself at home if it cannot create and hold a place among governments," and because of the belief of the red leaders that "all governments are moved by greed," they now appear "with a bribe" with which to secure that necessary place.

In short, as the PITTSBURGH GAZETTE TIMES (Rep.) has it, "the soviet is honest if honest, can be made to pay." But the proposal as the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL (Ind.) sees it, is merely "a scheme on the part of Lenin and Trotsky to strengthen their tottering structure of despotism," and the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) adds, "to prevent its utter collapse."

The fact that, this latest move "greater little enthusiasm abroad," the NEW ORLEANS TIMES (Ind.) agrees, "will bring to bear a stronger influence for recognition and economic peace for Russia than any other 'argument' that might be submitted to the world."

And in the opinion of the WHEELING REGISTER (Dem.), Russia has taken the most likely step to bring about the desired end, for "money is a most powerful agency in smoothing out existing difficulties; a cure-all, in fact, and the proposal which the Soviet government has now made 'will bring to bear a stronger influence for recognition and economic peace for Russia than any other 'argument' that might be submitted to the world."

Old Songs Coming into Favor
Old songs which have been but memories for many years are coming into favor again, according to a LONDON CHRONICLE correspondent.

"It interested me, when passing down a street of small houses," the LONDON CHRONICLE correspondent writes, "to hear the melodious strains of 'The Lost Chord' mingling with the rattling refrains which have occupied all the pianos in the street on Sunday for some years."

"I thought it must be a little more than coincidence when, on Monday morning, I heard 'The Lost Chord' being sung in a hotel for students which I passed on my way to business."

"My idea that the old songs are coming back was strengthened when, later in the same day, I found showers of pennies descending on a band composed of ex-Servicemen—who were also playing 'The Lost Chord.'"

"Of course, the revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas may have unconsciously reminded a great many people of Sullivan's songs. On the other hand, in the course of my wanderings about London streets, I am often delighted to catch a phrase of some of the songs we used to sing years ago."

"The moral, I think, is plain. After the fever of the past few years ordinary people are turning once again to simple, straightforward melodies linked to simple, straightforward sentiments."

UNCLE SAM—LET'S BACK HER UP!

Candy-Making Tips

One of the most important factors of candy making lies in the cooking. Candy cooked too long is always hard and very sugary. Candy cooked too short is not long enough and very sticky. With a thermometer there is usually little difficulty in determining when the candy is done, but if one is making candy by the test method a thorough knowledge of terms is necessary. "Soft ball" means that when a few drops of the boiling candy are tried in cold water the drops hold their shape and if gathered with the fingers will stick together and the whole form a soft ball that may be very gently lifted from the water. "Hard ball" means that the ball formed is solid to the touch, but pliable in the fingers. The next stage is when the hard ball will not give to the fingers. The "crack" stage is reached when the drops will not stick together to form a ball. When the sirup is dripped from the spoon threads rather than drops are formed. These threads will keep their shape in water, will crack slightly against the cup, but will bend and not snap. The "brittle" stage is when the threads snap against the cup and break if bent. As fondant is one of the easiest candies to make and can be used in many ways, try it first.

Fondant
Two cups granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup cold water. Put sugar and cream of tartar in smooth sauce pan. Stir to mix cream of tartar in sugar. Add water and let stand until the sugar is melted. Cook to boiling point. As the sirup boils crystals are formed on the sides of the pan. These must be removed or the candy will be grainy. Dampen a cloth in cold water and wipe two or three inches of the surface. Keep doing this until the pan is free from crystals. Do not stir during the boiling.

Boil until the soft ball stage is reached. Remove from fire and let stand until cool. Stir until white and creamy. Turn onto a marble slab or a big cold platter and knead for 5 or 10 minutes. Put in a bowl, stretch damp cloth over the top and cover with a plate. Let stand 24 hours or longer before using.

Frosted Grapes
Select large white grapes. Remove seeds. Melt fondant over hot water. Dip grapes in melted fondant and put on an oiled platter to cool. Nuts are delicious coated with fondant and then dipped in chocolate.

Stuffed Dates
Pour boiling water over dates. Drain and dry between towels. Remove stones and fill the cavity with fondant flavored with vanilla. (Copyright, 1921, NEA Service)

Adventures of the Twins

By Robert Barlow

A Call for Jack Frost
Nancy and Nick did not go up to the sky again with Mr. Sprinkle-Blow. What was the use? The fairyman told them that after one big celebration in the fall, Howey Thunder and Jumpy Lightning and Old Man Flood usually crawled back into their house and went to sleep until spring. He also said that Sizzly Dry Weather never stuck his nose out of doors until the next summer. As for Jack Frost, he assured them that Jack was of more help than they could imagine after a certain time in the fall, and that although he had escaped and was hiding somewhere in the woods, there was no need to worry about him any more.

some heavy snow clouds over the world, for me and give them a good shake. The Snow Fairies fly down and make the world beautiful. Then I turn in and go to sleep until it's time for more snow. Jack Frost looks after the winter long. Busiest person you ever knew!"
"Oh," said Nick. "That reminds me. A letter came for you from the Fairy Queen. Here it is."
Sprinkle-Blow unfolded it and read: "Dear Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, Please send Jack Frost at once. He is needed on the earth to sweeten the grapes and pumpkins, to crack open nut-burns, and to paint the leaves on the trees different colors. Scramble Squirrel and Chick Chick-aree can't wait till he comes. Tell the Twins, please, that I wish to see them."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backache Or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste got about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. These famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases. adv.

DREDGE BAY BOOM CUT OFF ON WOLF

Dredging and deepening of the Bay Boom cut-off near the mouth of the Wolf river has recently been finished by the government dredge Omro, according to word received here.

Due to low water this summer and the fact that the cutoff had been allowed to fill up, this water was not navigable during the dry period. A repetition of this circumstance cannot occur again for some time, it is said, now that the snags and other obstructions have been removed.

No official notice has yet been received from the Milwaukee office in regard to the closing of navigation. It is believed that such notice will be received soon as navigation usually closes about November 20.

SCHAEFER DISPOSES OF TWO VALUABLE CALVES

In a sale of purebred Holstein sires held recently at the farm of Edward King in the town of Algoma, Winnebago co., R. J. Schaefer of the town of Clayton sold a calf to William Beck for $125.

The calf was the offspring of a cow which holds a production record of 21 pounds of butter in a week. Mr. Schaefer also sold another animal to Oscar Raesch at a price of nearly $77. Twenty animals were sold in this group and they brought prices totaling $1,450.

The sale was held by the Winnebago County Holstein association and was promoted by G. A. Sell, the county agent. It was one of a series of such sales which are being held so that farmers and dairymen may stock their farms with purebred cattle.

Dealers Do Not Agree On Turkey Price Predictions

Appleton, meat dealers are not agreed in their predictions as to the cost of the piece de resistance for the Thanksgiving day dinner. They differ in their predictions of the supply of turkeys and the price but are inclined to agree that the demand will not be as great as in the last few years. But while the dealers are trying to determine whether there will be a famine or feast, farmers are looking up their birds and getting ready for the big day and the sales which precede it.

Louis Bonini of the Bonini markets is of the opinion that turkeys will be very scarce and that a higher price will be demanded than last year. The highest retail price last year was 60 cents per pound.

"If more than 50 cents per pound is asked this season, the average family will not buy turkey for its Thanksgiving dinner but will depend on chicken, goose or duck which will be very reasonable in price," Mr. Bonini said. "In past years the average sized turkey sold to medium sized families weighed between ten and twelve pounds. We have sold turkeys that weighed as high as 30 pounds but a turkey of that weight is very unusual. These extra sized birds are sold to restaurants, hotels and exceptionally large families and for reunion dinners."

"No one knows what the price will be as we pay according to the city quotations in competition with the turkey shippers but I predict that the prices will equal those of last year if not higher."

"Turkeys are of a better grade and in a better condition this year than in the past few years," declared Charles Hoffensperger. The dry summer was the ideal condition for the growth and development of turkeys. My opinion is that there will be plenty of turkeys on the market this season. In fact there might be a great surplus. I think the demand will be cut in half as the people are living closer to their pocketbooks than was the case last year. During the war consumers bought the best cuts and nothing was too good for them, but now after several wage cuts and financial reverses they are taking to cheaper cuts and have reverted back to pre-war conditions. Prices will range between 35 and 40 cents per pound."

"Reports from the country are to the effect that there will be plenty of turkeys on the market during the Thanksgiving season," said Fred Stoffel of the Stoffel market. "It is too early to make any accurate predictions as to the market and demand for Thanksgiving dinners."

HEAVY BUSINESS PROGRAM PLANNED AT HOLSTEIN MEET

Annual Meeting Will Be Only an Afternoon Session to Draw Large Attendance

One of the most extensive business programs ever arranged for a breeders' meeting in the county is planned for the annual gathering of the Outagamie County Holstein Breeders' Association here promptly at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the council chamber of the city hall.

A record attendance is expected. The usual morning session has been dispensed with because the attendance during that period usually was small. Business will be hurried so it may be completed in the afternoon period.

The biggest matters are reorganization of the association with a more local plan, the arranging of a tri-county sale series and election of officers. The association will take up the matter of conservatively advertising the county all through the year as a Holstein buying center to keep buyers coming here. Funds probably will be requested by the officers for this purpose. More tubercular testing of Holstein sires on farms, and indorsement of the "better bull" movement also will be taken up.

BREEDERS TO SELL 17 PUREBRED BULLS

Three leading Holstein breeders of the county, R. F. Winckler, George J. Schaefer and William Menning are consigning 17 head of high class, purebred Holstein bulls for a public sale to be held at the George J. Schaefer farm, Medina, at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, Nov. 25.

One purebred sire with an advanced registry official record will be given away during the sale. Liberal payment terms are to be given the farmers to encourage them to improve their herds. James Weller is to act as auctioneer.

Plan for Convention

KILL OFF RATS AND MICE

These pests are parasites of the worst order with no redeeming feature.

They carry death, disease and destruction wherever they go. Rats and mice destroy millions of dollars worth of property every year. They increase so fast that a single pair, breeding uninterrupted, will produce a vast host in three years would produce a posterity of 359,709,450.

The Department of Agriculture has prepared a booklet telling how rats and mice may be fought and conquered. The booklet is highly interesting and entirely free. ONE TRAIN EACH WAY ON BRANCH RAILWAY

Railroad Commission Reverses Original Ruling on Train Service

As the result of a hearing recently held in Oshkosh before L. E. Gottle of the state railroad commission, the Chicago and Northwestern railroad will run only one train each way daily on the Oshkosh-Hortonville branch.

The train will leave Hortonville at 10:10 in the morning and will arrive in Oshkosh at 12:10. It will leave Oshkosh for the return trip at 5:30 and be back in Hortonville at 7:20.

On Oct. 1, the commission ordered the company to operate two trains each way daily on this branch line just as it had done previously. F. H. Hamill, assistant general manager of the railroad, asked for a hearing in order that he might show the commission only one train daily was necessary.

As a result of this hearing, the commission conceded Mr. Hamill's contentions and revoked its previous order. C. M. Starks, traffic manager of the Oshkosh Association of Commerce, objected to the curtailment of train service on the ground that Oshkosh had given the railroad company a right of way and had subscribed to $75,000 worth of the company's bonds.

D. E. Rindan of Chicago, attorney for the company, presented a statement to the commission showing the company's receipts and expenditures on the Hortonville branch for the month of October. It is said to have shown that the business did not warrant the expensive operation of two trains each way daily.

H. M. Culbertson of Medina, former state senator, did not fight the curtailment of service but he appeared before the commission asking the adoption of a train schedule he had arranged. This schedule is the one now fixed by the commission.

THE STAGE

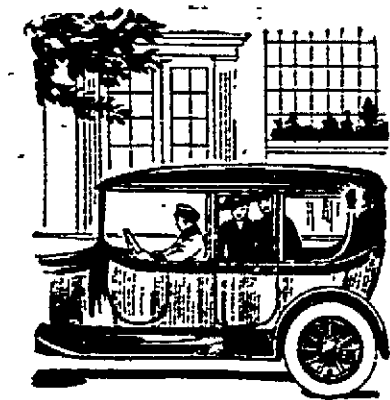

Sings Scotch Songs

If you pine for the romance of "the old days," don't fail to hear Glen Ellison, baritone and Alta Hill, pianist at Lawrence Memorial chapel. One song will be enough to bring up a picture of the wild adventures of the fierce black-haired Dumars, or the gentle pursuits of the sandy MacGregors. For there is a true Scotch burr on Glen Ellison's tongue, that will make even a good American song smell of heather.

Few artists before the musical world today can interpret the Scotch songs with real understanding of the emotional intensity underneath the Scotch reverb. Glen Ellison is one of the few.

Tuesday evening will give Mr. Ellison's devotees a chance to hear him. He is in finer voice than ever and the concert promises to be a big event. Cards of admittance to this concert may be obtained from Meyer & Seeger Music Co.

NEW LEADER OF DEMOCRATS

Cordell Hull of Carthage, Tenn., newly chosen chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, is known as the father of the present income tax law.

He is considered the best informed man on taxation in the country.

As a boy he had no idea of reaching such high standing as his is today, for he was busy helping his father guide rafts of logs down the Cumberland river.

But he determined on law as a career and at 18 entered Cumberland university.

After his graduation he served one term in the Tennessee legislature and then left for the Spanish American war as captain.

As circuit judge, in Nashville, from 1903 to 1907, he was known as a quick, decisive thinker.

In 1907 he was elected to Congress, where he remained until the beginning of this year. During that term his most important work was the composition of the present income tax law.

He is now 50 years old.

Worn Library Books Make Pleasant Hours For Sick

What becomes of books that have outlived their usefulness in the public library?

That is a question that has entered into the minds of more than one patron of the city institution as he browsed among the books and found a few that were beginning to show signs of wear. He wonders if they are burned or if a more noble method of passing out of existence is found for them.

An inquiring reporter learned the other day that books which are no longer in condition for general circulation are given to persons who are unable to go to the library for reading material. Large numbers of books have been given to inmates and to the city home for the use of inmates too feeble to go to the library.

Before that plan was adopted the books were sold for waste paper but the market for paper fell so low that it was almost a shame to get rid of the books in that manner. It was then that it was decided to give them to the old, the sick and the feeble.

Mighty few books that were put in the library when it was started 23 years ago still are in circulation. The oldest book in the library is Dickens' "History of England," which bears number 11, indicating that it was placed in the library in January, 1898. Numbers of books taken out of circulation are never given to a new book. The highest number of the library now is about 24,000 while there are about 16,000 books in circulation, indicating that nearly 8,000 have been taken out of circulation, given away or destroyed in the last quarter century.

Keep Efficient by Keeping Well

This Letter Will Tell You How

"I suffered terribly every month, and was always tired and nervous, and had indigestion, and often could not do a thing. I was this way about two years, and had to stay home with my mother. I tried several medicines, then I found a book of yours, and mamma told me to try the Compound. So I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it certainly worked wonders with me. I have taken six bottles of it, and am still taking it when I feel the need of it. I have already recommended it to a number of working girls, who are taking it. I am working now, and stand up all day and feel fine. I am glad to say that Pinkham's medicine did a lot for me and for my mother, and we only wish we had taken it a long time before."—Rose Schaefer, 4876 Annunciation St., New Orleans, La.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Schoeff works for her living, but on account of sickness was obliged to stay at home for two years. During this period she suffered terribly at times. She tried several medicines without finding relief. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood may depend on your health. So try

LITTLE IDEALISM IN DISARM MEETING

Chinese Orator Says Academic People Have Set Their Goal Far Ahead

"Whatever agreement the nations make at the disarmament conference, it will not be altogether idealistic," said Peng Chun, Chang in speaking to the Lawrence students in Lawrence Memorial chapel Monday morning. "The agreement will have an economic basis and a practical relation, but after all it is the practical relation which brings results. But as an academic people we are expected to disagree for it is the academic people of the world who have a more distant goal which means not the materialization of expansion but the humanization of growth."

Mr. Chang traced the development of the expansion of the great powers since the discovery of the new continent in 1492. He said that in the past when a man became dissatisfied with his surroundings he moved west, but now he cannot move because there is no longer room for expansion and he must overcome his situation by realizing that human nature plays a large part in his affairs and that after all human nature is a changeable thing.

How to Increase Weight and Put on Solid Stay-There Flesh

What difference does it make to you how EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES puts good, solid, red-blooded, healthy flesh on your bones as long as it does it and makes you feel 100% better at the same time?

Evans' Triple Phosphates is something new and something that really does what is claimed for it. Start to take it today with each meal and in four days you'll know that you are growing more robust and feel stronger and more active. Continue with the treatment faithfully for 10 days more and note with satisfaction that your nerves are growing more responsive; that your ambition does not lag but is obedient to your wishes.

A touch of color is appearing in your cheeks and that your occupation ceases to become a task and is a pleasure. Notice that never before in your whole life have you enjoyed living as you do today. Watch yourself at the end of one month and let the scales tell the story.

All good Gruggates have agreed to supply thin, run-down, under-developed persons with the understanding that if one month's treatment doesn't give most gratifying results, your money is waiting for you. But don't take it even though it accomplishes wonders in nervous digestive troubles and as a general nerve tonic, unless you really want to put on flesh and gain weight.

MAY COMPEL HORSE DRAWN WAGONS TO CARRY RED LIGHTS

County Board Will be Asked to Regulate Use of Highways at Night

All horse-drawn vehicles using the public highways in this county may be required to display a red light from the rear at night if an attempt is made to have the Outagamie county board make this regulation is successful.

An increasing number of accidents on the highways resulting directly from the lack of lights on wagons and other vehicles has led to demands that the board take action and the probability is that a resolution asking that such a ruling be passed will be presented to the board early in its present session which opened Tuesday.

Ordinarily, the autoist can see an unlighted vehicle in the light of his own machine but should another automobile be approaching from the other direction, his view of the vehicle in front of him is obscured and an accident may easily result.

In some states, display of lights on horse-drawn vehicles is already required by law just as a Wisconsin law requires lights on automobiles. Since this state has not yet taken such action, the county board may pass an ordinance under the clause which gives it power to regulate the use of public highways.

ROTARY CLUB PLANS TO EXTEND ITS MEMBERSHIP

Plans for activities of the Rotary club for the coming month were outlined at a meeting of the directors of the club at a dinner Monday evening at the Sherman house. A movement was started to extend the membership. A review of the local Boy Scout financial condition was given. Progress made thus far in production of the play, "The Tomorrow," which is to be given by the Rotary club for the benefit of the Boy Scouts, was outlined.

C. P. Tennie was a business visitor in Chicago Tuesday.

DEATHS

LITTLE FUNERAL

The funeral of C. S. Little was held from the Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and was conducted by the Rev. John McCoy of Kaukauna. The pallbearers were Frank Wright, R. A. Buxton, G. W. Jones, H. C. Humphrey, Howell Thomas and F. E. Saecker. The Masons attended the services in a body. Interment was at Fond du Lac, and the services at the cemetery were in charge of the Masonic order of that city. The trip was made in automobiles. Among the people from out of town who attended the funeral were J. R. Little of St. Paul, brother of the decedent; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Griswold of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Charles B. Hill of Evanston.

MRS. BARBARA BROKER

Mrs. Barbara Broker, 78, mother of Mrs. L. Bowe, 439 Cherry-st., died in Chilton Monday morning after having been confined to her bed since Thursday. Mrs. Broker, who made her home with Mrs. Bowe until a year ago, has been ailing for some time. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bowe and Mrs. John Solomann, Neenah, three sons, Nicholas and Joseph Chilton, and Lawrence of Los Angeles, Calif., two brothers and three sisters and several grand children.

Funeral services will be held from St. Augustine church in Chilton at 8:30 Wednesday morning. The body will be brought to St. Mary church at 11 o'clock and interment will be made in St. Mary cemetery.

CITY SEEKS TO PROTECT CARVER-ST. PAVEMENT

Street department workers are laying drain tile along both sides of the new Carver st. concrete pavement. About ten days will be required to complete the work.

The common council authorized this work to be done at its last meeting, because there are no curbs abutting the pavement and it was feared that water might seep beneath the concrete, freeze and cause the surface to be cracked.

Street cleaners have given up their work for the winter with the arrival of snow. The streets have been kept in neat condition all through the fall with mild weather prevailing.

FAITH MUST BACK UP WORK, MOTT SAYS

Famous Y. M. C. A. Leader
Says Christian Movement is Gaining Momentum

"The Christian movement among students is not only increasing in volume but in momentum," said John R. Mott, world famed Christian statesman in speaking to the Lawrence students and townspeople at Lawrence Memorial chapel at 8:30 Tuesday morning. "The steady and honest gaze of men is fixed on Jesus Christ. Since the war, the faith of many has been simplified, but the things which they believe are fixed on a living personality as well as an historic personage."

Dr. Mott traced briefly the Christian movement in American, European and Asiatic countries as shown by the growth of the students Christian union. He showed the great importance of the students in the critical times which they will have to face during the next 10 years, and emphasized the need of putting men with a clearer Christian vision into all fields of activity including commerce and industry, teaching, preaching, missionary work, journalism and all others.

Urging that the students back up their ideals with works, Dr. Mott told of the great suffering among the students in foreign countries and urged again that the American students come to their aid so that the foreign countries may also depend on their students in the critical times to come.

C. OF C. WANTS TO HEAR NOTED SPEAKER

Colvin E. Brown, of Washington, chief of the organization staff of the National Chamber of Commerce and one of the foremost figures in commercial activities in the United States today, may speak in Appleton next March.

Upon invitation of the local chamber of commerce, Mr. Brown said he would gladly come here if an itinerary could be arranged for him and he could appear in several cities in the state. He did not feel that his appearance in only one place would justify the long journey.

Secretary Hugh G. Corbett is now attempting to arrange a satisfactory itinerary for him. A tentative speaking tour of the state would include Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Neenah, Green Bay, Chippewa Falls, Madison, Beloit and Wausau.

Mrs. Charles Burgess of Madison was the guest of Miss Anna Tenney for several days.

COLLEGE ORATORS IN ANNUAL CONTEST

Six Orators Representing Three Classes Will Take Part in Event

The annual oratorical contest of Lawrence college will take place in the old chapel in Main hall Friday evening. Six orators from the three upperclasses will take part in the contest which is a preparation for the intercollegiate contest. Oscar Schmiege, Laura Sievert, and Karl Trever all of Appleton will be among the participants.

Part of the winning of the contest for the classes depends on the school spirit and originality of the class. Each class places decorations for its section of the hall, puts on an entertainment and works out songs and yells. Committees are appointed to judge these three phases of class interest.

The orations include: "The Nation Outcast," by Oscar Schmiege; "Education for Democracy," Laura Sievert; "A Plea for World Peace," George Singer; "The Prophets Tragedy," Karl Trever; "The Call of the New Crusade," Vernon Couillard; "The Twentieth Century Challenge to the College Man," Clement Ketchum. The public is invited to attend the contest.

Six teachers will attend Friday's meeting in Cleora which will be directed by Supervising Teacher Nellie McDermott. The teacher of this school is Miss Esther Bubolz.

SHIPPING RECORD NEARLY PERFECT

Two of the 1,137 packages received for shipment Saturday by local transportation company were classed as imperfect, because they carried old markings which had not been properly erased.

With one-half of "Perfect Package" month now gone by, an improvement in the condition of packages is expected during the next two weeks. So far shippers have shown a spirit of cooperation in the matter and most of them have understood that the requirements of transportation companies along this line are meant as a safeguard to the shipper.

SATURDAY'S GAME AT WAUKESHA ENDS GRIDIRON SEASON

Lawrence Plays Carroll in Last Game of Year—Fear Over-Confidence

With the Little Five conference championship safely in its grasp and still jubilant over its victory over Ripon on Saturday, Lawrence began work for the final battle of the season with Carroll college at Waukesha next Saturday. While the Blue and White squad is confident of victory it is not taking any chances and will go into the game prepared to fight as hard as it did against Ripon.

Carroll lost to Ripon by a 60 to 6 score and also fell before Beloit. Lately, however, it has shown some improvement and got its first taste of victory by walling Northwestern college last Saturday. That taste may make the Presbyterians hungry and they may sail into Lawrence in fierce fashion.

Coach McChesney saw many faults in his team Saturday which he will strive to correct before the next game. It is more than certain that hereafter the quarterback will run the team and will not be obliged to listen to advice from his mates. Saturday's disastrous experience taught the team a lesson.

McChesney is trying to guard against overconfidence before the Carroll game. He wants his men to understand that Carroll is not a team to be laughed at but a real fighting foe which may possibly put the skids under the local squad.

STENGEL IS GOAT OF HOYT SARCASM

Waite Hoyt, star twirler of the New York Americans, comes from one of the first families of Brooklyn. Waite is a graduate of the academy of the same name. However, one gets the advantages of a liberal education in the University of Baseball. If you have your doubts, peruse the following bit of world series repartee.

During the series the members of the Giants did not take kindly to the way Hoyt, a former Giant himself, was fooling them at the plate. Casey Stengel, a Giant bench warmer, was evidently delighted to get Hoyt's goat. Stengel usually employs unique methods. As Hoyt was walking back to the Yankee bench after being thrown out at first, Stengel tossed a small package at Hoyt, which fell at his feet. Hoyt picked it up, opened the package, and extracted therefrom a small cake of highly perfumed soap.

Immediately he was the target for a "razing" from the Giant's bench, with Stengel acting as cheer leader. Hoyt, however, proved equal to the occasion. The son of one of Brooklyn's first families hurled the soap back at the Giant's bench. His perfect control was with him, the cake striking Stengel on the leg, and with it came these cruel words:

"Go wash your neck, Stengel."

That silenced Casey for the rest of the series.

Sport Views And News

The announcement that Appleton high school will go to Beatrice, Neb., to play the high school champions of Nebraska on Thanksgiving day was received with a good deal of pride by Appleton people. The Nebraska school wanted a worthy opponent from Wisconsin and selected the Appleton team as one of the best in the state. The 1921 team has earned its trip to Beatrice and is sure to acquit itself creditably. Next year Beatrice will come here in what should be the feature game of the season.

Considerable regret is expressed by Lawrence college alumni and by football fans in general that Ripon may possibly be cut off from the Lawrence schedule next year because the local school is going into a bigger conference. Ripon has always sent a good team to Appleton and never fails to show fight. What is more the Ripon men and supporters are good sports and have been for a long time. It would be a real loss if Ripon is not given a game next year.

Mike Gibbons' European invasion is well under way and Friday night he battles Ted Lewis in London. Gibbons should have little trouble polishing off Lewis because the St. Paul Irishman is just about the king pin of the middleweights. Gibbons isn't as young as he used to be but he still carries a punch in his trusty right which will spell doom for many a fighting foe.

Although professional football is attracting more attention than ever before, there is hardly a team in the country which is not running behind financially. The players are demanding top heavy salaries and the gate receipts come so near meeting the expenses. It is said that the Packers and Dufals are ahead of the game but all the other squads are far in arrears.

East High of Green Bay and Appleton will have it out on the chalk marked field this week end. It should be quite a game. The teams size up about equal, both having played Oshkosh to tie scores. Aside from the Marinette-Superior fracas, this is the only contest of any importance in this part of the state.

HOME COOKED DINNERS EVERY DAY AT THE PALACE

Proves Honesty Of Baseball

"I WAS CERTAINLY
PULLING FOR SOMEONE TO CATCH THAT BALL"

OSCAR VITT
WHO KNOCKED BOLAND
OUT OF THE BIG LEAGUES

ERNIE BOLAND
WHO PITCHED TO FATE
WHILE WITH ST. LOUIS

By Billy Evans
No one can better appreciate the honesty of baseball than the umpire. True, some of the Chicago White Sox once strayed from the pathway of righteousness, but that case was one of the very few exceptions.

Time and again during the summer incidents came under the observation of the umpire that prove conclusively that to the player the honesty of the game is paramount. Let me relate such an incident.

Not so many years ago Oscar Vitt and Ernie Boland were members of the Detroit American league club. They were close friends, pals, and for years had been room mates. Both were rated extremely valuable players.

Boland as a great pitcher, Vitt as a crack third baseman. Strange things happen in baseball and happen quickly. Last year found Vitt with the Boston Americans, and Boland with the St. Louis Browns.

Boland had been released by Detroit because of a bad arm. St. Louis, needing pitchers badly, took a chance on him. As Boland expressed the belief that he was in shape to deliver.

In his first start with the Browns, Boland got along fairly well, good enough to justify the belief that he would be of some help to the St. Louis club. Then the Boston team invaded St. Louis for a series of four games.

Perhaps no fellow in baseball was more interested in Boland's attempt to come back than Oscar Vitt. Boland was selected to start one of the games against Boston. I was umpiring the bases and in the very first inning, Vitt came over to me and said:

"What about Boland? How does he look, Bill? Do you think he has a chance to come back?"

Pleased with Optimism
I told Vitt that while Boland lacked his old-time speed, he had fairly good stuff left, and had a chance to string along with the Browns. It was evident that Vitt was much pleased with my optimistic opinion as to Boland's chances.

Few pitchers know more about the art of deceiving the batters than Ernie Boland. His knowledge of the weakness of every batter, his use of a slow curve and a nice change of pace, enabled him to go along for about five innings on even terms with the Bostonians. Then came the break of the game.

A base on balls, an error, and a hit filled the bases and brought Oscar Vitt to the bat. Here was the big crisis in the game. Oscar Vitt up, the bases filled, and Ernie Boland, his old pal, pitching his heart out in an effort to stick in the big leagues.

Did Oscar Vitt strike out? No. Oscar Vitt hit for two bases, scoring three runs and causing Manager Fohl to remove Boland from the box. That hit won the game for Boston, sent Boland to the showers, and really ended his major league career.

When Vitt pulled up at second base, and the game had been stopped while a change of pitchers was being made, he walked over to where I was standing in the infield and said:

"I like my base hits as well as the next fellow, but I certainly was pulling for someone to catch that ball. That is one base hit you will never hear me talking about. Poor Ernie, I guess he is through when I can hit him that hard."

The other day the news report carried a story that a check for $30,000 had been sent to Mathewson. That tidy sum represented the receipts of a benefit game played at the Polo Grounds for the great "Matty." It was the largest sum, by thousands of dollars, ever taken in at the gate for such a cause. It was the testimony of the fans, showing their great regard for "Matty." It was a great tribute, richly deserved.

Speaking of "Matty," I recall an incident that happened at the close of the 1912 series. The series was over. Matty had been defeated in the final game because of the new famous Snodgrass miff, coupled with a few other errors of omission. He had pitched a remarkable game and lost. Waiting at the Back Bay station in Boston for the train to New York, I spied Matty, walked over to where he was standing and remarked:

"That was a tough one to lose, Matty."

"Some one had to win," he replied with a smile. That was his only comment. He had no unkind words for the unfortunate players who had lost the game and championship. That was typical of Mathewson.—B. E.

HILL LOOKING FOR HARD FOUGHT BOUT

Local Grappler Has Lot of Respect for Big Canadian's Ability

"Rogers, next to Mahmoud, was the toughest man I met on the wrestling mat here last winter," declared George Hill, local grappler, Tuesday while discussing his bout with Rogers Wednesday night. "The big Canadian is strong as an ox and mighty fast. I remember that he gave me a mighty interesting battle."

Hill says he would rather beat Rogers and Mahmoud right now because of the fact that he is being made over promptly at $20. He has had considerable difficulty heretofore in getting his preliminary wrestlers around when they were needed but will have that matter taken care of for the next bout.

The sale of tickets is progressing very nicely, insuring a much larger crowd than for the first bout.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT YALE BOWL

There are some interesting facts about the Yale bowl.

There are 64,026 permanent seats; with temporary seats, the total capacity is 79,637.

The bowl is 333 feet long and 74 feet wide, outside to outside. The playing field is 500 feet long and 340 feet wide.

It covers twelve and one-half acres and the distance around the outside is about a half mile. There are about 23 miles of permanent seats.

The bowl has been so constructed that in the afternoon neither team has the sun in its eyes, an annoying fault on most fields.

MARINETTE CLAIM TO GRID HONORS IS LAUGHING STOCK

Oshkosh Has Much Better

Than Northern Team

During the last few weeks Marinette has been making claims to the high school football championship of Wisconsin. This claim is ridiculed by high school football coaches in this section because Marinette has been defeated by Oshkosh. Oshkosh would have a far more valid claim to the championship as it has not been defeated thus far this season. Several other high schools have a more substantial claim than has Marinette, it is claimed.

"Although Appleton high school lost a game to Antigo in the early part of the season it has a better claim to the championship honors than Marinette," said Coach A. K. Vincent of the local eleven. "The following scores show that Appleton has a valid claim to the honors. Marinette defeated East Green Bay early in the season by a 2 to 0 score. Later Menominee, Mich., won from East Green Bay, 35 to 0. Appleton defeated Menominee, 14 to 0. Menominee was defeated by Oshkosh while Appleton held Oshkosh to a scoreless tie."

"I realize that the football championship of Wisconsin is a very uncertain affair and never has been definitely and conclusively settled," said Coach Vincent, "but Marinette has no just claim to state honors."

ALLENRU SURELY CONQUERS RHEUMATISM

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Schultz Bros. Co., Voigt's Drug Store, Union Pharmacy and every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer of this vicinity that if two bottles of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiful, and where the patient was helpless.

Allenru relieves at once. Immediately after you start to take it the good work begins. It searches out the uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels.

It's marvelous how quickly it acts. Bitter relief often comes in two days, and even in cases where the suffering is most painful all traces disappear in a few days.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru who for many years suffered the tortures of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Schultz Bros. Co., Voigt's Drug Store and Union Pharmacy to guarantee it in every instance.

"Rasslin" Racket In New York Turns Into Real War

By Henry L. Farrell
New York—What a nice little war the "rasslin" racket is turning into! Tex Rickard was out Tuesday with the claim that he had been jobbed by the "Interests" in his debut last night as a mat impresario.

Several hundred fans, who were the guests, were still talking about the season's coming out party in which John Pesek was barred forever from wrestling in New York; Marin Plesina, the "trust buster," had his eyes nearly gouged out; Referee Fleeson won a three-round decision from the commission, and a riot nearly resulted when it turned into "a bout to death."

The rumpus started before the semi-final had been finished when a New York paper came out with a story that Pesek had a helpless right arm but would wrestle any way.

Rickard had the arm examined by doctors who said there was nothing wrong with it and the party started. Pesek started to lose on a foul by gouging the big Serbian painfully in the eyes with his thumbs.

The referee stopped it and declared Plesina the winner on a foul. The commission went over the head of the referee and ordered the men back in the ring. Pesek was disqualified again and the commission again stepped in and ordered the referee to make them go at it again.

Pesek got his thumbs working again. The commission then announced that Pesek was "barred forever" and his end of the purse withheld.

Chicago—The feature of the Big Ten conference results on Saturday was the return from oblivion of Coach Test of Michigan.

One of the oldest and most famous coaches in the country, Yost has lately been the subject of severe criticism by his alumni—as having outlived his time. It was said that the game had become a little swift for the old man and that Michigan should import one of these sprightly geniuses who are giving lesser schools real teams while Michigan was regarded as a fair workout for the real "razzmatraz" elevens.

But poor old Yost taught his charges, in his feeble, doddaring way, enough football to hold the smashing, championship aspiring Wisconsin eleven to a 7-7 tie and now there are only two real contenders in the Big Ten first fight—Yost and Ohio.

Michigan was favored by a muddy field, in that Wisconsin is a speedy, running attack outfit. They charged down to the Michigan goal several times, but Yost's men held at critical periods and the first game played between these universities in sixteen years ended in a tie.

Another feature of the results was further illustration of the fact that in Aubrey Divine, Iowa, has one of the most scintillating backs that ever pulled on muleskin pants. Divine scored four touchdowns against Indiana, tossed passes that resulted in two more, and with Locke, the best plunging fullback of the year, in the west, proved that Iowa is entitled to a full claim for the Big Ten championship with Ohio.

Chicago recently met a tartar in Illinois and only won, 14 to 6, by virtue of heavy line plunging by Fullback Thomas, who scored two touchdowns, while Sternaman, the Peewee Illini back, was dropping kicking a couple of goals.

Ohio had soft going against Purdue and will probably have little trouble in taking Illinois next Saturday for a clean slate for the season.

MOST MARVELOUS GIRL IN WORLD IS IN BLIND SCHOOL

Janesville Girl Can See by Smelling and Hear by Feeling

Special to Post-Crescent
Janesville, Wis.—The most marvelous girl in the world is just beginning to do marvels for other girls and for boys, too.

She is Willetta Higgins, whose eyes are blind and whose ears are deaf, but who sees by smelling and hears by feeling.

Willetta is 16 and an inmate of the Wisconsin school for the blind here.

Before Willetta became totally blind and deaf she was far from a marvel; frankly, her teachers thought she was stupid.

Often they lost patience with her. They "just couldn't get things through her head." At 10 years of

The Ladies of St. Paul church will give a Bazaar at St. Paul school building, Franklin-st., Thursday, Nov. 17, commencing at 10 a. m. Lunch will be served and will be followed by a musical program in the evening.

ago she had not only so far as the second grade and was really a problem for her grandmother, who was rearing her with her two sisters and one brother.

Aliments Found

Then a teacher, a little more inclined to investigation than the others, found by some simple tests that Willetta couldn't see well or hear well. She was brought to the attention of a field agent for the school for the blind, who took her to the institution.

For several years, despite the most sympathetic attention and scientific methods of the officials and teachers at the school, Willetta didn't improve much. Her disposition, if anything, grew worse.

Two years ago she became deaf; a year ago she became blind. For a week she was more morose, if anything, than before. Then one day suddenly came an awakening—the result of her sudden perception of her powers of smelling and feeling.

Excels Helen Keller

Today Willetta Higgins, through the development of her powers of smelling and feeling, has become more marvelous than even Helen Keller.

"Maybe it is the gift of God in return for the loss of my sight and hearing," is Willetta's only explanation.

Some have been skeptical. They thought the girl still had some powers of vision. To convince them she was given yarn of six colors, in six separate envelopes, and locked in a bank vault at Chippewa, Falls. In this blackness she opened the envelopes, smelled the yarn, wrote the color of each strand on an envelope, and put the yarn of that color in its respective envelope. When the vault was opened it was found she had made no mistake.

She can hear by feeling vibrations. If she talks over the telephone, she merely places the tip of her finger over the receiver diaphragm. If she is listening to someone converse she rests her finger lightly on the person's throat, shoulder or chest.

So acute is her sense of hearing by feeling that she can tell what Superintendent J. T. Hooper of the school is saying, by standing 10 feet from him, and taking hold of the end of a wooden pole, the other end of which he rests on the top of his head.

Willetta recently visited Governor John J. Blaine at the state capitol at Madison. She listened to him by placing her fingers on his shoulder, and she easily told the colors of his coat by smelling it.

INDIAN IS MARRIED IN JAIL AT OCONTO

Oconto.—The first marriage ever performed in the Oconto county jail took place when Joseph Shawanoke-sick, a Menominee Indian, under arrest for horse stealing, was united to Sarah Mollott. Immediately after the ceremony the husband was taken to Waupun to serve two years and the bride returned to the reservation to await her husband's release.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good. Recipe perfectly, and lasts a family a long time. It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappears entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

62 PLAYS FAIL TO ATTRACT PUBLIC

By James W. Dean
Special to Post-Crescent
New York—Twenty-six of the 62 plays produced in New York this season have failed. Producers are wondering why. The answer is that the public this season is not paying just to go to the theater.

Several plays failing in New York have been sent on the road heralded as "attractions from Broadway." They failed on the road, too. One comedy featuring two stars opened to $144 the first night in Cleveland and drew only $153 its second night. Meanwhile "The Bat" is still running strong in New York after two years. One company is playing it in Chicago, another in Philadelphia and two on the road. The royalties of Avery Hopwood and Mary Roberts Rinehart are reported to be $6,000 a week. Lionel Barrymore, burdened with the weakest vehicle of his career, is doing his greatest work in it. This is "The Claw," a French play by Henry Bernstein. Barrymore plays the role of a Paris publisher who betrays his party because of the influence of a young vampire whom he marries. The end of the play shows him a blabbering, floundering old fellow, faced by complete dishonor and deserted by his wife. A mob stones his window. He drops dead. The best part of Barrymore's acting is the completeness with which he allows himself to be ruined. Irene Fenwick is the vamp of vamps who accomplishes all this.

FACTORIES ARE ADDING WORKERS

Madison.—Employment conditions in Wisconsin factories are on the upgrade. For the fourth successive month the returns received by the industrial commission indicate an increase in the number of employees in Wisconsin factories. October showed an increase of 1 per cent as compared with September, and of 6.5 per cent over June, of this year. As compared with July, 1920, however, the number of employees in Wisconsin factories is still 34.2 per cent smaller. The total wages paid was 48.5 per cent less in October, 1921, than in July, 1920, and average weekly earnings 21.7 per cent lower. During the last month there was practically no change in average weekly earnings. Since June of this year there has been recovery in all industries except mining, machinery, manufacturing, sawmills, planing mills, milk products and laundries. The increases made in other industries are well distributed. There is a noticeable tendency to recover, but no very great gains.

A Smile In The News

To Irene
Berty sits enthroned upon her face,
Shaping her sweet and captivating smiles.
Her form impersonates an unassum-ing grace
Inviting one to linger and behold a while.
Of all the fair
That I have ever seen
None can compare
With beautiful Irene.

The hyacinth's pale blue is in her eye.
Upon each cheek a blushing rosebud blooms.
With Nature's crimson colorings her lips would vie;
Her voice is like an echo in commodious rooms.
—A queen since birth!
Yet never such a queen
Has walked the earth—
Adorable Irene!

Oh hum, them goulashes is back again this year. I wonder if the girls wear them for comfort, or just so they'll look odd.

I do despise
A blue Monday
But most I hate
A nut Sunday.

Isn't it strange folks, that "kick"
must always be associated with hops?
We don't mean the kind that you see in dance halls, we mean the honest to goodness vegetable variety. Some people, y'know, are of the opinion, too, that if hops is a vegetable the fellow takes them internally is a nut.
So, Kukauna,
Monday.

Dear Heck:
When I was over in Tamarack,
Wis. this summer I fell in love with Juniper the first time I cedar. Since then I have tried to spruce up but I always feel like I am sitting on needles. Gosh, I felt happy when I saw her eating the cones I bought for her. Now I am wondering if I could buy her firs if I married her. For har I continually pine and balsam.

What would you advise?
Jack (Pine)
Two's Day

Dear Jack:
We never advise anyone, we merely tell them what we think. Then, we leave it to their better judgment.
It is generally left for good so it can't be right.
We think the best thing for you to do is to tie a nuptial knot and cease to pine. If you prefer a look to a knot we would recommend the hemlock. Regardless of how the affair turns out it is a cinch you will be overgreen.

Heck.

If John D. was a baker and he kneaded some dough he would raise the price.

Pertinent Question
If the moon goes up will the demand fall?

Now this is no dream,
My dear little elf,
If someone sits on you
Stand up for yourself!

We once knew a boy whose name was Dannie Carr. He had a sister whose name was Oona. But she didn't.

A trade journal says, "Your honey will be worth more next year."
Thanks, we will stick to her.

It is rumored that some Appleton doctors are writing prescriptions without charge. Are we really so far back on the road to normal?

Senator Watson says he is outspoken. I suppose it was his wife who did it.

Normality Returns
Things are getting back to an economical basis. Broadway chorus girls have started making their own tights.
It seems they were almost out of them.

HECK.
